MARY SAYS BROWNING THREATENED WITH GUN

By JOSEPH S. ROGERS.
(Copyright, 1926 (Universal Service.)

New York, Dec. 16.—The suit for $500,000 damages filed by Mary Spas against Edward W. Browning, eldest by husband of Frances "Peaches" Browning, was characterized today as one of the most amazing actions in the history of New York jurisprudence.

Mary was the rich Browning's original "Cinderella girl."

In her complaint, Mary reveals for the first time the charges of brutality against the millionaire real estate owner.

She tells of intimate details of her first night in the suite he took her to after her adoption, which she alleges was done fraudulently and with his full knowledge that she

R. W. CHILD, IN HUB, FAVORS CRIME BOARD

A Massachusetts commission to deal with the crime wave was urged today by Richard Washburn Child, noted author and former Ambassador to Italy, who also prophesied a prosperous future for New England through a policy of economic co-operation among the States.

"You need a crime commission in this State," he declared to 500 Boston men at a Chamber of Commerce luncheon. "The time has come. It has come to this nation. It has come to Massachusetts.

"Some of those who have dealt with crime say, in effect, 'Oh, do not touch crime. That is hysterical. Perhaps the criminal is not to blame.'

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—In this active city, with the thermometer three below zero, people talk so fast they don't feel it. For comfort they can look toward the Northwest, 38 below zero in Minnesota.

Cold is good, for the young, but why do so many of the older people, able to travel, risk their lives in the cold North, with California, Florida an' warm Gulf States inviting them?

THE DEATH OF Charles R. Erwin deprives American business of an able, constructive adviser. Mr. Erwin, who leaves eight children, and dies too soon, only sixty-seven years old, was president of Lord & Thomas in 1913. Then developed the Erwin & Wasey organization. It can be said of him, as of other men that devote their lives to advertising, that many successful men owe their wealth to his intelligence and do not realize it.

OIL LEASE JURY, OUT 19 HOURS, FREES 'OLD $100,000 LOAN PALS'

By GEORGE E. DURNO
International News Service Correspondent

Washington, Dec. 16 (I.N.S.).—Albert B. Fall and Edward L. Doheny were acquitted today of conspiracy to defraud the government in the leasing of Elks Hill, California, naval oil reserve. The jury was out 19 hours.

The verdict was rendered by a youthful jury that for more than three weeks sat in the District Supreme Court and witnessed one of the keenest legal battles in American court annals.

The government thus lost the first of its criminal cases against those charged with being the central figures and conspirators in the "oil scandals" of the Harding administration.

Both Fall and Doheny were overjoyed and obviously greatly affected emotionally by the verdict.

"I am gratified by the result," said the oil magnate. "The

COOLIDGE NAMES TARR FOR U. S. ATTORNEY HERE

Frederick H. Tarr of Rockport was today nominated by President Coolidge as United States district attorney for the Massachusetts district.

Assistant United States District Attorney George R. Farnum of Worcester, who was prominently mentioned as a possible nominee for the post given Tarr, was instead nominated by the President today as an assistant attorney-general of the United States.

The nominations were sent to the Senate by President Coolidge for confirmation. Tarr is named to succeed former U. S. Attorney Harold P. Williams, who was appointed a Superior Court judge by Governor Fuller.

Farnum is nominated to succeed Fr. F. Lenz, who has resigned as an assistant attorney-general.

Tarr is a former member of the Massachusetts Legislature and was on the Governor's Council when Calvin Coolidge was governor. He is also a graduate of Amherst, alma mater of the President.

12 MATTAPAN PUPILS STRICKEN SUDDENLY

The sudden illness of a dozen pupils in the Prescott School, Mattapan, revealed today that a number of cases of typhoid have broken out in that section and in Hyde Park.

An investigation ordered by Health Commissioner Francis X. Mahoney determined that a Hyde Park milk dealer is a typhoid patient at City Hospital, and two children whose families are among his customers, are at the Homeopathic Hospital.

The nature of the illness of the other children has not been determined, but their homes are being watched closely by the Boston health authorities. Other customers of the milk dealer are also being kept under observation.

Following reports of the illness of the children, Dr. Frederick J. Bailey, deputy health commissioner in charge of the division of communicable

"I have to pick up cinders out of ash barrels to keep us warm," writes 12-year-old Aristine of South End in appealing to the Christmas Goodfellow Editor of the Boston Evening American for help.

"My two brothers and my sister have to stay home on cold days as they need underclothes and shoes and stockings. We wish we could have some clothing and some coal or wood at Christmas. I haven't seen my father since last June, so please don't forget us and when I grow up I will remember what you did for me, Santa, and I will tell others all about the happy Christmas you gave me."

COURT IS CROWDED AS OFFICER FACES TRIAL

A new investigation into the death of John Ramsay of No. 94 George street, Roxbury, in connection with which Patrolman Leon M. Randall of South Boston is held in $1,000, was started by District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien today.

It is understood that the district attorney is devoting practically his entire time to this investigation, and has given orders that he is not to be disturbed unless urgent business should demand immediate attention.

Randall was arraigned before a large crowd in Roxbury Court on a charge of manslaughter in connection with Ramsay's death.

It was charged that the policeman had gone off his route and clubbed Ramsay so viciously that he died.

The patrolman defendant waived

W. A. LARNED, EX-TENNIS CHAMP, KILLS HIMSELF

New York, Dec. 16 (A.P.).—William A. Larned, former national tennis champion, committed suicide by shooting in his room today at the Knickerbocker Club in Fifth avenue.

A nervous breakdown from which Larned had been suffering for the last two years is believed to have caused his act.

His last appearance in a tennis match was at Forest Hills, N. Y., in 1922 during the Metropolitan championship play.

Larned, who was fifty-four years old, also had been suffering from rheumatism for some time. He was rated as a man of considerable means and was formerly a member of the New York Stock Exchange, selling his seat in 1922 for $28,000.

MELLON'S $100,000,000 RUM PLANT BILL READY

Washington, Dec. 16 (A.P.).—A bill authorizing the creation of a $100,000,000 corporation to control the manufacture of medicinal whiskey has been completed by the treasury for presentation to Congress, in line with the plans of Lincoln C. Andrews prohibition enforcement chief.

No government funds will go into the enterprise, Secretary Mellon said today, but he expressed the opinion that there would be no difficulty in getting subscriptions for $60,000,000 of stock in the corporation and $40,000,000 in bonds or notes.

DR. WALSH DEFAULTS; ASK HIS ARREST

Dr. Thomas E. Walsh, South End physician, awaiting sentence for illegal surgery and conspiracy in connection with the dismemberment of the body of Edith E. Greene, defaulted today when his case was called in Suffolk Superior Criminal Court.

There have been rumors that Dr. Walsh had fled the country, some reports placing him in Ireland and others in Mexico and Central America.

Indicted on three counts, Dr. Walsh was convicted by a jury on two, and the third, charging him with responsibility in connection with the girl's death, was nolle prossed.

Since his arraignment in Superior Court Dr. Walsh has been at liberty on bail in bonds of $15,000. The sureties were Patrick J. Walsh, No. 11 Washington Heights avenue, Roslindale; Mary E. Brown, No. 1 Hughes street, Quincy; Joseph H. Walsh, No. 793 Columbia road, Dorchester; Ellen J. Walsh, No. 15 Harbor View street, Dorchester; Mary E. Oil King and Ex-Cabinet Member ~ Pals of Years Ago ~ Freed in Bribe Conspiracy

JURY THAT FOUND THEM NOT GUILTY

Twelve men, who sat through the famous case for weeks, snapped on their way to dinner. It took them 19 hours to reach a verdict. Left to right, they are: Herbert Via, H. D. Myers, Wm. B. Farmer, George B. Cobb, Christian Vobel, A. E. Parker, H. J. Briggs, Stephen Vermillion, Clinton Carver, B. S. Snow, Winfield Martindill and C. F. Parker, deputy marshals being at extreme left and right.

ordeal has been a terrible one. After a lifetime of honorable effort I have seen my principal work, which was to make a good name to hand on to my son and my grandchildren, almost destroyed.

"I hope that the American people, whose belief in trial by jury amounts almost to a religion, will accept the verdict of this typical American jury."

Fall said:

"My confidence in the courts has been justified. I have been vindicated."

It is understood the first ballot was 9 to 3 for acquittal, that a second ballot was 10 to 2 and that the third was unanimous for the defendants.

From her sick room at the Carlton Hotel, Mrs. Edward L. Doheny, wife of the oil man, whose testimony in his behalf was one of the outstanding high points of the trial, said:

"My joy is inexpressible. My prayers have been answered as I knew they would be. My heart is full of gratitude to the jury and the countless people, many of them unknown to us, who from all parts of the country have sent us messages of encouragement, and have joined their prayers to ours."

Edward L. Doheny, Jr., said:

"If the jury had known my father as I knew him they would not have been out long enough to take a ballot. We have had our day in court and after a fair trial have received the only verdict which justice permitted."

There was an air of intense but suppressed excitement as the jury filed in.

DRAMATIC CLIMAX.

Justice Hoehling had been on the bench for several minutes.

The jurors filed into the box and then all stood.

"Have you reached a verdict?" asked the judge.

"We have," responded Alphonso E. Parker, 43, newsdealer, who had been elected foreman.

"Is Edward L. Doheny guilty or not guilty?"

"Not guilty."

An audible sigh surged through the courtroom.

"Is Albert B. Fall guilty or not guilty?"

"Not guilty."

Justice Hoehling's advance admonition that order should be maintained went unheeded.

A surging mass of spectators swept through the rails to the two defendants.

Mrs. Fall and her daughter were weeping for joy.

Mrs. Doheny and her daughter-in-law had elected not to be in court when the verdict was rendered.

SINCLAIR CASE NEXT.

The jury had been out since 2:48 yesterday afternoon, although actual deliberation had consumed only about nine hours.

It is unlikely, in view of today's verdict, that the government will press the remaining charge of bribery against the two men.

Also, in view of today's verdict, government counsel are doubtful whether Fall can be considered to have had legal control of the naval reserves which he leased to Doheny.

Under the law, a Federal official can be bribed only to do something which he has the official power to do.

Though Fall has been acquitted of conspiracy to defraud the government in the leasing of the Elk Hills reserve in California, tomorrow he is to be arraigned on another conspiracy indictment, charging that he conspired with Harry F. Sinclair in the leasing of Teapot Dome, in Wyoming.

In the Teapot case, government counsel are going to try to prove that more than $200,000 in Liberty bonds involved in that transaction found their way into the ex-Cabinet officer's possession. They have traced these bonds, they say, through a circuitous route which took in the Continental Trading Company of Canada, Ltd., and involved three prominent independent oil operators, Blackmer, O'Neil and Cody, who have been residing abroad for many months.

Prosecutor Walsh Declares Oil Guilt Sticks

Washington, Dec. 16 (A.P.).—Senator Walsh of Montana, prosecutor of the Senate oil inquiry which led to the conspiracy charges against Albert B. Fall and Edward L. Doheny, put into one sentence today his mental reaction to the verdict of acquittal.

"Proof in a criminal case must show guilt of the defendant beyond a reasonable doubt," he said, "and in view of that rule I apprehend that the widespread conviction that the transaction was a reprehensible one will not be dissipated."

Fall-Doheny Acquittal Blow to Government

Washington, Dec. 16.—The acquittal of Albert B. Fall and E. L. Doheny in the first of the criminal trials growing out of the "oil scandals" of the Harding administration constitutes a severe blow to the government's whole far-flung legal campaign to recover the naval oil reserves and to punish those responsible for their leasing.

In the opinion of legal experts, the entire criminal case against the "two old prospectors" has collapsed.

The betting has always been in Washington that the government would not convict Fall and Doheny in the case just ended, and odds could be secured today that the government will be equally unsuccessful in the Sinclair case.

With Deputy Health Commissioner James O. Jordan and Dr. Richard E. Dyer, milk inspection division, he observed conditions at the dairy and visited the homes of customers.

Health Commissioner Mahoney said today the milk was pasteurized, so that if the infection was passed by the dealer the germs were probably on the outside of the bottles.

A warning was issued to consumers taking pasteurized milk, to boil the bottles under cold water faucets and wash them with the hands before opening them. In this way it is believed germs would be washed off.

LARNED KILLS HIMSELF

He was one of the closest students of tennis in this country.

His home was at Far Hills, N. J., but for the last two months he had lived at the Knickerbocker Club.

The body was found in bed by a valet this afternoon. Larned apparently had shot himself in the right temple with a revolver several hours earlier.

Larned won the national singles championship seven times. His first big court victory was in 1892 when he beat Bob Wren for the intercollegiate title. He represented Cornell. He took his first national crown in 1902, repeated the next year, then dropped out of competition until 1907. He was victorious again that year, and for four seasons thereafter. He was named as ranking player in this country eight times.

Larned served with Roosevelt's Rough Riders during the Spanish-American War. He served overseas during the World War.

Only one other champion in American history rivals Larned's record. R. D. Sears, the first titleholder, won seven years in a row, 1881 to 1887.

"Big Bill" Tilden, with six straight titles to his credit, failed in an attempt to equal the achievements of Sears and Larned.

SEEK $412,069 TO CARRY OUT CANCER PROGRAM

To carry out its comprehensive cancer program for 1927, appropriations amounting to $412,069 is called for by the State Department of Health in a final report made today. The budget of the department provides for $155,264 for maintenance of the new Norfolk State Hospital and $48,805 for clinics. The $100,000 granted by the Legislature in 1926 was not sufficient to properly renovate and equip the hospital and an additional $80,000 is asked for. Other items call for the purchase of two grams of radium at a cost of $120,000.

vice squad. The complaints in many instances named Garrett, and Garrett swore to get the man who was trying to blacken his reputation.

Recently John Flynn and Frank Bell, who, the police say, run a Broadway establishment, almost captured Conroy. According to their story, Conroy entered the place and bought a drink. As he was served he threw back his coat, showed the badge and announced, "I'm Garrett from headquarters." Then, the police say, he tried to hold a "kangaroo court" for $50. It so happened that both Flynn and Bell were acquainted with Special Officer Oliver Garrett and knew the man opposite them was lying. They jumped him, but he managed to escape with two companions who had entered the place after him.

Several other clues were obtained, and police shadowed Conroy for some time. When they were satisfied he was the man they sought, Garrett and two companions arrested him on Tremont street today. The police are now investigating to find out where he obtained the police badge which they allege he used.

In his last important tennis match, Mr. Larned was paired with H. H. Hackett in the Metropolitan doubles tennis championship play for veterans.

He lost to Sam Hardy and W. A. Campbell. Mr. Larned retired from the brokerage business upon the sale of his Stock Exchange seat in 1922.

Officials of the Knickerbocker Club said there was no doubt his nervous troubles were the direct cause of his suicide.

WOMAN TAKES POISON IN 'L' STATION

Despondent because her family objected to her friendship with a Chelsea man, pretty Mary Hernon, 17 years old, of No. 88 Lawrence street, Medford, attempted suicide early today in the Everett Elevated station.

The girl will owe her life, if she recovers at the Massachusetts General Hospital, to the quick thinking and prompt action of Patrolman E. P. Conley of the Everett police.

Conley happened to look through the window of the station and saw the girl sitting on a bench with Daniel Duffy of South Boston. She seemed sick, and young Duffy was evidently puzzled as to what was the matter with her.

When the girl saw the patrolman looking through the window she started to walk away, but she staggered, and when the patrolman entered she fell unconscious into his arms, after murmuring that she had taken poison.

The girl recovered sufficiently to say that she had had trouble with her family about a Chelsea man, not Duffy, who knew nothing at all of her attempt on her own life.

It was learned that Miss Hernon disappeared Tuesday night from the home of her sister, Mrs. Oscar Claessons, No. 88 Lawrence street, with whom she lived. Last night the girl telephoned her sister-in-law, Mrs. Marie Claessons, Claymont street, in the Linden section of Malden, and declared she was not going home. Informed that her sister had been searching for her, Miss Hernon said, according to the sister-in-law:

"When they find me they will find me not as they think they will."

Mary had made threats of suicide previously, according to her sister.

Louis Claessons, brother of the girl, an automobile salesman in Medford, was notified and left at once for the Massachusetts General Hospital to take Mary home.

MAD DOG BITES 20 CHILDREN IN DORCHESTER

A score of children bitten by a mad fox terrier that raced wildly through Dorchester from Upham's Corner to Andrew square for more than twelve hours before it was overpowered and shot by a policeman are undergoing Pasteur treatment at Boston City Hospital.

One adult, Mrs. Agnes McDonald of St. Mary's street, was bitten four times. The dog was finally shot in the basement of a house in Boston street.

One hasty automobile ride revealed the story today after having made a thorough checkup in the vicinity to make certain that all persons bitten were undergoing proper treatment for the dread disease.

First to be attacked by the terrier was Catherine Lynch, 9, of Columbia road. She was chased and overtaken by the dog and after being bitten on both legs ran home in near collapse from fright.

The next morning the dog appeared again and ran madly through the groups of children in Columbia road and Andrew square.

Among the children bitten and treated at City Hospital were Annie Coughlin, Dorchester avenue; Henry Kendzursky, Harvest street; Joseph Cordeiry, St. Margaret's street; Robert Bluthardt, Boston street; Rita and Frank Keller, Mason street; Bernice Holmann, Dorset street; Edwin Jurkgies, Clapp street; Gwendolyn Gorham, Bellflower street.

APPROVES PETTING
Mrs. N. O. Freeman, 77, the oldest co-ed in the world, who attends Northwestern University, Chicago, approves smoking and petting by flappers.

WANT FATHER AT HOME FOR CHRISTMAS

If there's a Santa Claus will he return Charles Lacaillade to his despairing wife and four children? That is the Christmas plea of Mrs. Lena Lacaillade of No. 89 Brook avenue, Roxbury.

Mrs. Lacaillade has not seen or heard from her husband since last January, but is hoping, almost against hope, that he will answer the prayers of May, Rose, Florence and Joe, his little ones, and cheer their Christmas morning by his return.

The husband is a machinist by trade, is five feet and 10 inches tall, has blue eyes and wears tortoise-shell glasses. He weighs 180 pounds and has an anchor tattooed on his left arm as a memento of his naval service.

IF SHE'S PRETTY, SMILE! IT'S O. K., JUDGE RULES

New York, Dec. 16.—The once over and the up and down have judicial authority if there is sufficient provocation. Mrs. Helene Tatelman, seeking a separation complained that her husband flirted with a pretty girl.

Justice Ford told her: "I don't know that there is anything wrong about smiling at a pretty girl. I'm smiling at you right now in the presence of your husband."

MISSING GIRL IS RECOGNIZED ON TROLLEY

Two hours after she mysteriously disappeared Sunday night, Isobel Foley, who was rescued from a bandit gang in Ottawa by Rev. Agnew Demarest, Chicago evangelist, was seen aboard a one-man Dudley street trolley.

A woman giving her name as Mrs. James Cunningham of Roslindale today telephoned friends with whom Rev. Mr. Demarest and his family temporarily lived while in Boston, that a girl answering Isobel's description was a passenger on the same car with her.

"Is this Roxbury?" asked the girl of Mrs. Cunningham, according to the latter. She appeared to be lost. The girl left the house at No. 44 Rockview street, Jamaica Plain, about 7 p.m., Sunday night, to go to the Gospel Tabernacle to meet Mr. and Mrs. Demarest, and never was again seen.

Found in a bandit's den in Ottawa, the girl told police her grandmother had been cruel to her and that she then went to live with an aunt, who kept a boarding house. Rev. Demarest, on an evangelical tour at the time, persuaded the judge to free her and then took the girl into his own family as nursemaid for his baby.

The party arrived here several weeks ago and according to occupants at the Jamaica Plain address the Foley girl never went out or had telephonic or telegraphic communication with anyone.

Herman Rittner, wanted by New York police for a $50,000 Park avenue gem robbery, is alleged to have stolen $1,000,000 in valuables in four years.

2 MEN SEIZED IN LOOTING OF PHONE BOXES

Fitchburg, Dec. 16—A cunning scheme, by which it is believed thousands of dollars in coins have been taken from telephone pay stations throughout the East, was smashed here by the arrest of Ray Fowler, dapper Southerner.

An electric alarm, rigged from a pay station coin box in the Hotel Raymond to a room where police men waited, gave Fowler away, and resulted in his arrest as he emerged from the hotel carrying a bag of coins.

A tiny, triangular needle found on the arrested man revealed to experts of the telephone company his alleged manner of working, something which had been puzzling them since reports first began dwelling in from towns throughout Massachusetts and New York of looted coin-boxes.

They found that a tiny hole was drilled in the phone box and the needle inserted. It fitted into an oil-hole within and by turning the needle, the fastidious were upset, causing the coins to pour out.

Fowler, who is said to use the name of Henry A. Myers, also, tried to send a messenger to a house in this city to tell a man his car was "the Friday job is off." Police intercepted the message and going to the given address arrested Harry Crawford as a suspicious person.

More than $100 was found on Fowler and police are investigating his past for further record of his activities.

VERMONT MAIL CARRIER SEIZED; MONEY MISSING

Rutland, Vt., Dec. 16 (A.P.)—Edward Rotsman, substitute mail carrier was arrested by federal officers charged with the theft of mail. He was held for a hearing today before U. S. Commissioner James P. Reaney.

It has been reported that for several weeks money has been disappearing from local mail matter and it was this that brought the post-office inspectors here.

Town Near London Is Still Living in the Dark Ages

Downe, Kent, Dec. 16 (A.P.)—Although only 14 miles from London, this little town has no electricity, no gas, no sewerage system, no motion pictures and no doctor.

It has a 700-year-old church of which it is extremely proud.

All the houses are lighted with oil lamps and the church with candles. Only two houses have been built since 1914, one of them the town's only bungalow.

There is no place to dance or to hold theatricals.

The only amusement is cycling. Most of the young men buy motorcycles or bicycles and ride away—never to return.

TAX FOLK ELATED AS NICHOLS WIRES PRAISE

The city tax collector's office, from clerk up to Gerine H. Johnson, has its collective cheste stuck out today because the mayor saw fit to congratulate Johnson on his fine work for the year. Including Dec. 15, from which date the increased interest rate of 8 per cent. went into effect, the department had collected $52,614,160.68, as compared with $43,732,320.01 a year ago. The figures indicate 83.149 per cent. of this year's total assessment has been collected. Mayor Nichols telegraphed to the collector from Portland, "Congratulations on your fine work."

100,000 RABBITS' FEET CONNECTICUT HARVEST

Hartford, Dec. 16 (A.P.)—Has there been some means of distribution, one hundred thousand Connecticut persons might have been able to carry a rabbit's foot charm during the coming year. The rabbit hunting season was a normal season, according to Superintendent of Game W. The game of the state Fore-sries and Game Commission, and about 125,000 rabbits were shot during the six weeks' period. Those who did not secure a charm will have to wait until November 1, 1927.

FIGHTS GARAGE PLAN TO GUARD GIRL STUDENTS

Garages were characterized as "a dangerous thing to place in a student neighborhood" by Judge Philip S. Parker at an appeal hearing today before Commissioner of Public Safety Alfred F. Foote.

Parker representing the Church of the Messiah, whose opposition to a permit granted by the Boston street commissioners to the Opera Garage, Inc., was sustained by Fire Marshal George C. Neal. The structure was to have been placed at 127 St. Stephen street, Back Bay.

"PERIL TO YOUNG."

"Conditions in a public garage are such as to make them unfit for young people to be in or to live around," Parker declared.

He contended that a garage would be a serious detriment to all the neighboring district and would act as an opening wedge to turn the district into a business section.

"Help us keep it a residential district for the safety of young girls," he urged.

Dr. William E. Gardner, rector of the church of the Messiah, declared that in his opinion a garage would be "detrimental to the social life of the community."

"NOISES ELIMINATED."

At the opening of the hearing Burtis Brown, engineer, testified that the causes of noises had been eliminated in the construction. Also, the garage would have six doors and a 400 car capacity, he said.

Daniel Cornell, real estate operator, owner of the garage company stock, and who bought the land, testified that the owners' lands at City Hall would not be injured, adjoining garage have not depreciated, but on the contrary have increased.

Crime Commission, on the other hand, aims at an attempt to put out the fire of crime and also to establish and encourage so far as possible every agency able to contribute to the knowledge of the cause and cure of crime.

"First: concentrate on crimes of violence against persons and property and the peace and tranquility of well-ordered society. Secondly, encourage to the fullest extent sound agencies which can yield knowledge about all the causes and cures of crime.

"Thirdly, and above all, work for the formation of State crime commissions. The States are the units of enforcement of laws against violence to persons and property.

"The National Crime Commission has helped bring about the appointment of several State and local commissioners, in California, Chicago, Illinois, Baltimore, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Cleveland, Memphis, Louisiana and Kansas."

Economic rebirth of New England by co-operation among the six New England States was predicted by the former ambassador in an interview with the Boston Evening American.

UNITY IS NEEDED.

"By union and co-operation New England will find means to overcome the artificial boundaries which divide her from the rest of the nation," he said.

"There are infinite possibilities when a group of States act together, and that is the way for New England to go forward in the future.

"The same is true for the whole United States. We have the United States, as a Federal unit; and then we have the United States as a group of individual States. There will grow up a third United States which will be an informal combination of all the States acting together for prosperous industry, business, trade and agriculture.

"Development and distribution of water power supply is a typical case where co-operation in the future will work wonders. Uniformity of economic policy among the States is another necessity. Co-operation in the fight against crime is a third possibility we must look to."

DERELICT SCHOONER BREAKS AWAY FROM TOW

Halifax, N. S., Dec. 16 (A.P.)—The three-masted schooner Annabelle Cameron, abandoned Dec. 5 during a North Atlantic storm, was found Dec. 13 by the Norwegian steamer Karma, said a message received today by C. H. Harvey, marine and fisheries agent.

The Karma, the message said, tried to tow the derelict but lost the tow line. The schooner has a cargo of lumber. Her crew was taken off by the fishing steamer Mariner while the ship was in distress Dec. 9.

WIDOW RESCUES FATHER IN FIRE

children on their way to school. The George Putnam School is also nearby.

On the top floor at No. 15 Dixwell street, smoke filled the rooms and corridor and Mrs. Alice Nolan heroically led her father, Samuel F. Gilpatrick, through the smoke and down the stairs, both being affected by the smoke on the way out.

Damage of $2,500 was caused, according to Deputy Chief Dolan. Fire Chief Sennott was at the scene directing the fire-fighters.

The fire was discovered by D. W. Currier, a city employe, who saw smoke from a distance. Both he and Patrolman Patrick J. Walsh, in Egleston square, sounded alarms and a second alarm was sounded when firemen arrived and found the flames had gained rest headway. Walsh, Currier and others made sure that all occupants were out and took care of excited tenants who desperately wanted to rush back to save belongings.

A small dog that ran through the building in fright was saved by its owner, one of the occupants.

Besides the Nolan family, the house was occupied by the families of Frank Banks, Thomas J. Donovan, James Bulfinch, a former Boston policeman, and James B. Conboy, son of the late Inspector Conboy of the Boston Police Department. One suite was unoccupied.

Cecil Lean, and his wife, Cleo Mayfield, actress, occupying an apartment on the eleventh floor, were awakened by the barking of their dog, and turned in the alarm.

A mother and two children occupying the apartment where the fire started were asleep and unaware of it until called by a telephone operator.

COOLIDGE'S NEW SNAKE VEST MAY DAUNT WET CALLERS

Washington, Dec. 16 (A.P.)—President Coolidge today found himself in position to blossom out in a snake-skin vest, if he is so inclined.

The first of the usual run of Christmas gifts which annually flow into the White House has proved to be such a garment, home tailored, the gift of Joe Stinson, of Rumsey, Ky.

This unusual sartorial creation consists of stripes of the skin of a rattler, neatly pieced together.

Snakeologists attached to the President's personal staff estimate that the rattler was seven feet in length and five years old. Five rattles were tucked away in a pocket of the vest.

OFFICER HELD FOR TRIAL IN DEATH CASE

the reading of the complaint, pleaded not guilty, and was held under the $1,000 bail for a hearing December 23, when the instance, if the evidence unearthed by the district attorney warrents it, the case will be presented to the grand jury and an indictment against Randall sought.

Excited interest in the case attracted a crowd of men and women to the courtroom, both from South Boston, where Randall is widely known, and from the Roxbury neighborhood, where young Ramsey lived.

Randall's arrest followed a police department investigation and a hearing by Superintendent Crowley.

Some years ago citizens of South Boston had demanded Randall's removal from the police force after a series of beatings of South Boston men placed under arrest for offenses more or less trivial.

The protest had no result, and Randall's appointment permanent for clubbing was held in restraint until December 5 last.

The story of his last outbreak, as related to the investigating board and to be related in court by reputable witnesses, is a picture of such horrible savagery that even stolid police captains were sickened by the details.

LUNCH-CART ARGUMENT.

Ramsey, arrested by Randall who was off his own district, died five days after the alleged clubbing at the hands of the South Boston patrolman. Captain Richard Fitzgerald of the Dudley street division started the investigation which led to the hearing before Superintendent Crowley and the charge of manslaughter entered against the officer.

According to witnesses, on Saturday night, December 5, Ramsey was in the Tremble Inn lunch cart, at Massachusetts avenue and Southampton street. With him was William Muzert of Albany street, Roxbury.

An argument arose between Randall and Muzert and, according to the witnesses, Randall, without warning, struck Muzert twice in the face, and then drove him from the cart.

Ramsey, said the witnesses, went to help his friend. Randall, according to the testimony, knocked Ramsey down, and then, kicking him down the small flight of steps leading from the cart to the street, Ramsey lying unconscious at the foot.

Then Randall returned to finish his lunch, witnesses said, his victim lying unconscious outside.

SKULL FRACTURED.

His lunch finished, Randall went outside again and found Muzert attempting to revive Ramsey. He set in hit Muzert, witnesses said, dr ying him away from the unconscious form of his friend.

Then Randall seized the unconscious Ramsey by the heels, witnesses said, and with the unconscious man's head striking again and again upon the sidewalk, he dragged him toward the nearest patrol box nearly a quarter mile distant.

At the station house Dr. Sheehan found Ramsey suffering from a possible fracture of the skull, and he was removed to the City Hospital There it was found that Dr. Sheehan's cursory diagnosis had been correct and that the man's skull had been fractured. He died five days later at the hospital.

Next Medical Examiner Timothy Leary said that death resulted from a fracture of the skull "produced by violence." The probe and charge of manslaughter followed.

South Boston citizens threatened to lynch Randall after a long series of beatings in 1921, when the South Boston Board of Trade demanded the man's removal of Commissioner Curtis.

James Murphy, of No. 91 Broadway, received a lacerated scalp at the hands of the patrolman, he charged.

Ignatz Kilinski was unmercifully beaten by Randall, according to Mrs Kilinski, though he offered no resistance whatever to the officer.

John W. McCormack and Joseph Lamont, the latter a wounded war veteran, sought warrants for the arrest of Randall for the beating he inflicted on them, but no action was taken.

FORMER 'DRY' OFFICIAL SEES PROHIBITION NULLIFIED

By BERT FORD.

The United States is headed for nullification of the dry law in the opinion of Major Walton A. Green, former chief United States prohibition investigator under General Andrews.

Major Green who is in Boston to give a series of talks on "Prohibition from the Inside," said today that a mistake had been made in vesting the Treasury Department with enforcement power. He said the Department of Justice was better qualified to do the job.

Graduate of Harvard in the Class of 1904, a New Englander by birth, and at one time publisher of the Boston Journal, Major Green in his role as chief investigator, got a legitimate look at the machinery of prohibition as any man in the country. He has been writing a series of startling and instructive articles for the Hearst newspapers.

SAYS DRYS ARE BEATEN.

"I expect my suggestion that the Department of Justice ought to handle enforcement instead of the Treasury Department will draw fire," added Major Green, "but it's the truth. I don't venture to say how soon nullification will come but just how it will be brought about, but it's coming sooner than most anyone."

"Why, nullification is already here in the East with gin selling at $2.50 a quart in New York, synthetic gin to be sure, but it was that before the Volstead Act.

"The enforcement officials are licked. I realized only too well that we were when I was in the service. Enforcement hasn't begun to stem the flow of booze. I now find that such nullification as Utah votes and boasts.

DRY VOTE, WET METHOD.

"It's hard to come to your face the cry about not being able to change the 18th amendment. Well the south has twice changed the 14th and 15th amendments.

"The country, the whole of it, is nauseated at the Maine election. Maine instead of most action but there was always a remote chance that the people would vote large as? Poland voted 'wets' by one majority. Governor Brewster declared he was going to Governor Brewster's Co. to get drunk and quite how I dread it.

"Wheeler is a big man and a clever politician, but he and his followers are wrong about the so-called 'dry delegations.' If the delegations are so dry why don't they insist on enforcement? The trouble is we have dry votes and wet methods.

"DRY" ("WET") SOUTH.

"Referendums are decried, but the quantity is headed for nullification nevertheless. It's in line with just to illustrate the same spirit that prevails. Three Arkansas with ten dry Congressmen and two dry United States senators and the Governor of the state. Should be found at a camping party where liquor was used. I'm not criticising the Governor's weakness in that, although the fact that liquor was at an affair where the chief executive was present, does trace conditions which prevail throughout the country.

"Many talk about a dry South. The Whites down there don't want the Negroes to get it, but they want it for themselves. The same conditions are found in the West and Middle West.

BOOTLEGGERS SPEEDY.

"The country, accustomed during the past few years to certain things, accepted prohibition and bravely attempted to make the best of it. Then along came the professional bootlegger who smuggled alcohol so much faster than the enforcement officers could hope to stop it that all hopes of success became contemptible at times in the underworld was made at the letter and spirit of the law.

"As most of us a prohibitionist, I don't like liquor because liquor doesn't like me. I'm supposed to know about as much about prohibition as any man in the country after serving as assistant as chief prohibition investigator. I had agents all over the world and on all sorts of ships.

CALLS FIGHT FUTILE.

"But prohibition as practiced here is still just as much of a puzzle to me as it ever was. There is nothing tangible about it. It's just a matter of opinion and one man's opinion is as good as another's.

"I realized the enforcement fight was futile. I suppose a likely means of hastening nullification on the part of the wet forces in Congress will be to cut appropriations.

"If they had ten times as many men and ten times as much money they couldn't stop the flow of liquor. Prohibition isn't a matter of statistics or figures. It's a matter of mind and morals. I'd like to see it properly enforced in this country but it never will be under present conditions and methods."

Major Green spoke at the Harvard Club. He will address the Boston City Club this evening and tomorrow evening will speak before his former classmates of Harvard '04.

Sees 'Wet' U. S.

W. A. GREEN

Former prohibition official is still an ardent "dry," but he cannot see how prohibition is to be enforced, and declares that the nullification of the 18th amendment is coming sooner than most people think.

TUFTS GLEE CLUBS SING XMAS CAROLS TODAY

Christmas carolling by the Tufts College Glee Clubs was to be a feature today of a Christmas season observance in Goddard Chapel, where the entire student body were guests of the Tufts Women's Club.

Christmas tea in Packard Hall followed. A Christmas lecture in French by Mme. Jeanne Brondel Allen, under the direction of the Department of Romance Languages, will be given tomorrow in Goddard Chapel, this being open to the public.

PILSUDSKI SEES NO MENACE BY GERMANY

Warsaw, Poland, Dec. 16 (A.P.)—Marshal Pilsudski, Polish Premier and Minister of War, is not concerned about the question of German armaments. He thinks the Polish press is exaggerating the danger menacing Poland in connection with present international relations and is too much alarmed over the questions of German armaments.

The Marshal made his views known before the Budget Committee of the Diet.

GUS EDWARDS GOODFELLOWS' SHOW

Gus Edwards, noted stage celebrity, who discovered children under his managerial wing and develops them into stars, is going to do something for the poor children who are without food and clothing—the bare necessities of life. He is to help the Boston Evening American Christmas Goodfellow Fund.

At Loew's State Theatre, where Edwards is now playing, a special performance has been arranged for tonight with his present protegés as the entertainers. The special show will take place tonight RIGHT AFTER the last regular bill is completed. Patrons at tonight's performance will be asked to remain and see this big extra show.

To make the entertainment more entertaining, Mr. Edwards asks, through the Boston Evening American, that all those who have talent of any sort, come to Loew's State tonight and exhibit that talent to him. He may pick another future star from among them. The only requirements are that applicants be over 16 years of age and under 21. This applies to both girls and boys who can sing, dance or play any musical instrument.

Dr. Henry J. Ryan, whom readers have heard on the radio over Station WEEI, is going to be at this special show also. He will address the audience. No extra admission will be charged.

The girls with Edwards' show will sing extra songs and do extra dances and with entertain their very best—all for the very worthy cause of charity.

Those who appear for try-outs will meet Mr. Edwards personally.

Remember this, Gus Edwards is the man who discovered Eddie Cantor, George Jessel, Mae Murray, Lila Lee, Georgie Price and a score of other famous stars. You may have "star ability." If you have, Gus Edwards will discover it.

Fitzgerald Praises American for Its Christmas Work

Former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, in his address at the banquet to Representative-elect Finnegan of Dorchester, paid glowing tribute to the work done by the Boston Evening American with its Christmas Basket Fund.

"I want to congratulate the Boston Evening Amer' n," he said, "for the work it has done and is doing for the needy in the basements. The zeal and activity of the newspaper in this worthy cause are deserving of the highest commendation from the entire city."

VARSITY WIDOW? NO, DEMOCRAT, LAUGHS JOHN

Amherst, Dec. 16 (I.N.S.).—Charges from Milwaukee and elsewhere that he has a secret service bodyguard to "protect him from the wiles of college widows" were called a Democratic myth today by John Coolidge, son of the President, in an exclusive interview with International News Service.

"Well, that's a new one," said John, on the steps of Walker Hall, Amherst college, when shown a statement by Attorney R. J. Cannon of Milwaukee, flaying Congress for appropriating money for the young student's bodyguard.

"They have to take someone for a ride," he continued with a laugh. "I suppose it might as well be me. I don't mind it. It's probably some Democrat that wants to get something off his chest."

GUARD GETS $1,600.

Mr. Cannon's statement, which was sent to every Senator and Representative, told of Roland Zolesky, citizen, of Milwaukee, who lost a hand in a grenade explosion at the army testing station there in 1918 and has been unable to collect anything from the government. But, he added, Congress was ready to appropriate $1,600 a year for Colonel George Starling to guard young John Coolidge.

John was just coming from a French recitation when informed of the Cannon statement. The President's son disclaimed any knowledge of widows, college or otherwise.

What aroused the ire of John was the salary mentioned for the Colonel. He said the Kentuckian got $4,600 a year, not $1,600. That $3,000 intimidated the Colonel's ability.

Speaking seriously, John said:

"As for college widows, I can't say anything about them. I don't know any. And you might say for me for the good of the college that Amherst men don't have widows on the campus at any time, either of the college type or any other variety."

John attended the sophomore hop on December 5 with Miss Margery Trumbull, daughter of Governor Trumbull of Connecticut, a student at Mt. Holyoke College in South Hadley.

ELOPEMENT FOILED?

The following Sunday he was with Miss Trumbull at vesper services at Mt. Holyoke Chapel. Colonel Starling went with John by trolley to South Hadley, but left him at Mt. Holyoke College.

At the time the colonel arrived it was reported and denied in a joking way by John and the girl that the secret service man was on to Amherst to prevent an elopement between the President's son and the Governor's daughter. From Washington, however, came the explanation that threatening letters had been received by the President regarding his son.

Colonel Starling today heard of the Cannon statement and expressed himself as follows, with his Kentucky drawl:

"Dad blast them! Why are they always picking on John? He isn't to blame for any of it."

RESOLUTION IN SENATE TO BAR SMITH

Washington, Dec. 16 A.P.)—A resolution designed to prevent Frank L. Smith from taking his seat as a senator from Illinois was introduced today by Senator Ashurst, Democrat, Arizona.

The resolution provides that the senatorial oath be not administered to Governor Small's appointee until the Senate has considered the report of the Reed campaign funds committee which investigated Smith's acceptance of campaign contributions from public utility sources during the Illinois senatorial primary campaign.

Senator Ashurst said he was willing to let the resolution lie on the table until tomorrow, but other senators on both sides of the chamber asked for a vote at once.

Before a decision was reached, the campaign funds committee submitted to the Senate without recommendation its report of the evidence of the Illinois investigation.

Dwight, Ill., Dec. 16.—Colonel Frank L. Smith, senator-elect of Illinois, today was formally appointed to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator William B. McKinley. But Colonel Smith was too busy looking over his farm property as a zero wind whistled through the trees to be reached for comment.

The committee report showed total expenditures of $458,782 in behalf of Smith's candidacy in the primary, including $253,547 spent personally by the candidate. The contributions include $125,000 from Samuel Insull, public utilities magnate.

Chairman Reed explained that the committee hastened its report because of the appointment of Smith to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator McKinley and said reports of inquiries in other States would be made later.

There still remain civil suits by which the government seeks to recover Elk Hills and Teapot Dome. These suits are now before the Supreme Court, and decisions are expected soon after the court reconvenes on January 3.

MAN HELD IN LYNN FOR ILLINOIS THEFT

Carl Engwell of Rockford, Ill. who is wanted in that city in connection with the larceny of $250 from a gasoline station where he was employed, made the mistake of following his wife to Lynn, where she is visiting, for he was picked up by Inspectors Stevens and Sullivan as a fugitive from justice.

GO TO REFORM SCHOOLS ON CHARGES OF STEALING

Roy Cain and Lincoln Thompson, juvenile, have been sent to reform schools for stealing. The boys were caught a week ago while climbing the Hotel Savoy fire escape. The first to be arrested, accused Cain of teaching him how to steal.

B. & M. OFFICIAL IS MILK RATE WITNESS

Dwight S. Brisham, assistant general manager of the Boston & Maine Railroad, testifying today in the milk rate case at the State House, declared that the road recarried the traffic as the highest importance and is given preferred attention. The hearings are being held before representatives of the interstate commerce commission and the public utility commissioners of New England and New York. In rebuttal of claims made by John H. Libby, witness for the milk producers and dealers, Brisham declared that the computations made by him of savings amounting to $125,000 were "rough."

LACK OF SEX APPEAL IN WIFE'S DIVORCE DEFENSE

New York, Dec. 16 (I.N.S.).—Lack of sex appeal was offered as a defense in a Supreme Court home today when Mrs. Cora M. Dorian, fifty years old, sat unmoved in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn ready to hear her counsel declare, "this woman should appeal to no man."

Dr. John S. Dorian is suing for divorce, charging Mrs. Dorian with misconduct. Mrs. Dorian's defense is filed she is too old and unattractive to interest a man as charged. She declares her husband's allegations are "a frameup and a conspiracy."

WATERTOWN YOUTH HELD IN ATTACK ON SCHOOLGIRL

John J. Duffy, 24, of Watertown was held in $10,000 in Waltham court today charged with attacking a Watertown High School girl, the 16-year-old daughter of his landlord. He pleaded not guilty and the case was continued until December 22.

HOWELL IN BOSTON SHOPS

DISTINCTIVE IN STYLE AND RICHNESS.

A thing of beauty and joy to the aesthetic sense is this black and gold brocaded reproduction of an imported evening wrap. Its color scheme, its modish lines and its texture clothe its wearer in an aureole as richly garbed.

The luxurious fur is pointed fox. It sweeps around the shoulders and cascades down the front; may be drawn snug as a scarf or worn hanging as a cape.

From the elbow down the flaring sleeves are of plain gold metal cloth. The lining is of gold cloth, too. The enlivening design on the back is in black and gold, appliqued.

Howell Fashion Sketches depicting modish modes of the moment as displayed in Boston department stores and shops are a weekly feature of the Boston Evening American.

CINDERS ONLY HEAT THIS FAMILY POSSESSES

come one. All you have to do is pick up your telephone receiver, call Liberty 4000, ask for the Goodfellow Editor, tell him you desire to extend a helping hand to the less fortunate at Christmas and he will at once put you in touch with a destitute family containing many hungry, half clothed, kiddies who may live just around the corner from you.

If you don't wish to telephone just drop a postal card and you will receive by return mail the name and address of a destitute family for you to care for. So far as possible, we will endeavor to place you in touch with a family living near your own home in order that you will be inconvenienced as little as possible in extending help. It's a very simple thing, isn't it? Just telephone or write or drop in to the Boston Evening American office and we will do the rest.

Hundreds of destitute families are now awaiting action on your part. Their happiness at Christmas will depend entirely upon what you do for them. And, we know, from experience, that you will be much happier at Christmas when you sit down to your own dinner in the realization that you have dispelled the gloom in at least one family.

There is no feeling akin to that which comes from performing a good deed—and what better deed could you perform than to feed and clothe destitute children on Christmas Day?

WILL ACT AS AGENT.

So, let us hear from you as soon as possible. We want to take care of as many persons as possible and we want you to be a part of this great movement of ours. If you are too busy to personally care for a family at Christmas, we have another means of including you in this laudable enterprise of ours.

You may send a contribution of money or used clothing to the Christmas Goodfellow Editor. The money will be spent every cent of it—solely for the purchase of food, fuel, medicine and clothing for needy families, and any used articles you send will be properly distributed.

An overburdened mother from Tufts street, Somerville, writes:

"My husband deserted me and my five little children one day after Thanksgiving, leaving only $2 in the house and most of the time since then they have been cold and hungry. We have had to depend on the policemen on the beat for food and fuel and they have been mighty good, but even as I write the fire is dying out and there is not another bit of coal in the house to keep us warm. There is only half a loaf of bread in the pantry for tomorrow.

"The children all need shoes and heavy clothes. The twins, 19 months old (a boy and girl) have the croup and their little bodies are purple from cold as their clothing is so thin.

"I am afraid there will be no Christmas dinner for them unless some of your kind readers come to help us. We have not always been in this terrible want, but my husband was in trouble, and he ran away and left me to care for our children, and I am not able to support them and the city hasn't helped me any yet.

"If you come to see us you will find things are worse than I can write about because I am a very poor letter writer. Please don't forget my little ones at Christmas They are John, 8; Grace, 5 Thomas and 'Girlie,' 19 months and 'Junior,' 5 months. Please send some help to us."

KIND FRIEND WRITES.

A kind friend of a discouraged mother who lives in Prince street Lowell, writes—

"I just want to ask you if it would be possible to help a family of four children, mother and father. The father has been sick just one year, and has not earned a week's pay since last March, on account of illness. He entered the Massachusetts General Hospital last May, and came out yesterday, not cured, and has gone to his home.

"I know they will be sad through lack of necessities and money and bitter disappointment of the father's illness—that I wish you or somebody would give them cheer We have been helping him with visits at the hospital and the little family all during his stay at the hospital, and we can't go on much more, as we are working people ourselves—but can't bear to see them and this Christmas, so I have turned to you for some help, as it is a worthy case.

"He is a good, hard-working man of 32 years. The ages of the children are 9, 7, 5 and 1 year Please send them shoes, rubbers or overshoes. The nurse who cared for him at the hospital can tell you how worthy of help this little family is. Please help them is my heart's prayer."

A disheartened mother living in Washington avenue, Somerville, writes:

"I wonder if I can get a Christmas basket of food? My hubby is one of the World War boys and has not been able to do any work since he came home. My baby has no overcoat or hat for Winter and I am in very poor health, and not one cent coming in to do with. We will be so grateful if you will only send us a basket of food."

CHARITY BALL A SUCCESS.

The charity ball in aid of the Christmas Goodfellow Fund which was conducted in the new Elks Hotel ballroom was a brilliant success. Hundreds of persons from all parts of Greater Boston attended.

An entertainment lasting more than two hours, in which more than 200 of the cleverest child performers in Greater Boston appeared, was one of the evening's features. These children are pupils of Gertrude Dolan-De Petro Studios of Dancing, Roxbury, and Marion Mulloy Dancing Studio, Winthrop. The songs dances, and readings of these charming and talented kiddies, who worked diligently for many weeks to perfect their numbers, were heartily applauded by the vast gathering in attendance. The entertainment will long be remembered.

Following the entertainment there was general dancing to the music of Lambert Brothers classy 15-piece orchestra. All of the musicians contributed their services free of cost and free use of the magnificent ball room in which the affair was conducted, was given by the management of the hotel. The gorgeously decorated ballroom made a perfect setting for the party.

Another of the evening's features was the organ playing of Del Castillo of the Metropolitan Theatre, whose services were contributed by the management of that up-to-the theatre. His rendition of classic and popular airs on the $50,000 Wurlitzer organ, which is part of the equipment of the ballroom, was a delight.

Bert A. Spears, a Christmas Goodfellow of many years' standing, acted as master of ceremonies.

A gold wrist watch was presented to 9-year-old Louise Franke of No. 2 Merton place, Roxbury, for having sold the largest number of tickets for the charity ball. This child, who sold 170 tickets, is a pupil of the Gertrude Dolan DePetro Studios of Dancing and was one of the featured entertainers. In addition she was given a lovely bouquet. Additional bouquets were presented by John W. English, Christmas Goodfellow Editor who directed the charity ball, to Mrs. Iw Penn and Marion Crandall Mulloy These flowers were the contributions of Penn, the florist, who has always been numbered among the Christmas Goodfellows.

NAB TEXAS GIRL BANK ROBBER AS 'FIREBUG'

Austin, Tex., Dec. 16 (A.P.)—Charged with arson in addition to the robbery of the Farmers' National Bank at Buda, Tex., Mrs. Rebecca Bradley Rogers today was at liberty under bonds totaling $7,000.

Identified by Buda Bank employes as the young woman who Saturday robbed them of $1,000, Mrs. Rogers was arrested today on a charge of setting fire to a vacant building at Round Rock last Friday as a ruse to attract attention of bankers there that she might rob that institution.

Both towns are only a few miles from here.

Tom Nelson, president of the Farmers' Bank at Round Rock, told officers that a woman closely resembling Mrs. Rogers visited his bank several times last week and asked many questions as to how the business was conducted. She returned Friday and inquired as to what they did in case of fire.

A short time later she entered the bank and shouted "Fire!" Nelson said the employes were suspicious of her and paid no attention to her alarm and she left. They then discovered a building near the bank was burning.

When Nelson was informed of the robbery at Buda the next day he furnished police with the number of the automobile used by the young woman at Round Rock, and the second arrest followed. She says she robbed the bank for a "thrill."

HELD IN $7,000
Mrs. Rebecca Bradley Rogers, Texas girl bandit, who looted a bank to get a thrill.
—International Newsreel Photos.

COLD, STERN LAW TAKES FUN OUT OF HER ESCAPADE
Photo shows Mrs. Rebecca Bradley Rogers, who is alleged to have burned a house in Round Rock in addition to holding up a bank in Buda, locking two men in the vault and fleeing with $1,000, at her hearing in Austin. Her mother is beside her. She is a stenographer in the office of Governor-Elect Dan Moody.

SEDATE, NO FLAPPER
Mrs. Rogers, who, until her arrest, was not even known to be married, is not a flapper. She is quiet, sedate, but she wanted a "big-time thrill."

WOMAN IS NAMED AS GRAND JURY FOREMAN

Toms River, N. J., Dec. 16.—Mrs. Laura W. Thompson, former Assemblywoman, of New Egypt, was appointed foreman of the December term of the Ocean County Grand Jury by Justice Frank T. Lloyd, of the Supreme Court, today.

"No woman has ever served as foreman of a Grand Jury in New Jersey," said Justice Floyd, "and it is about time for an innovation. In our opinion no woman in Ocean County is better fitted to serve in that capacity than Mrs. Thompson."

Silver for the Holidays
Silver for Every Day

For the newly engaged girl, for the bride, for the matron, let your Christmas gifts be silver. Nothing will please more, nothing can be more useful. Best of all, you may always select something in silver that will cost as much or as little as you wish.

A tea service is elegant and useful, and is truly a royal gift. A little salt-cellar is exquisite in itself, carefully designed, beautifully made, and a modest remembrance sure to be treasured.

Our second floor is our silver floor. There you will see our large stock in orderly array. Any piece or pieces which interest you can be shown you on mahogany, or fine linen, on dining-table or sideboard, as you wish, and so you can visualize how it will look when it reaches its home, the dining-room of some happy friend or relative.

Let us show you the new patterns of silver as well as those of continuing popularity.

WISHES TO RETIRE, SHE SAYS
President Coolidge will be re-elected in 1928, Eva Fay, prophetess appearing at Loew's Orpheum, predicts. She says Coolidge will be an unwilling candidate as he has tired of politics.

HAS LITTLE HOPE FOR SOX
Bill Carrigan will not have the Red Sox in the pennant contending class until long after Coolidge starts his new term, says the seeress.

PREDICTS PROSPERITY FOR NEW ENGLAND
Eva Fay says prosperity will alight in New England early in the new year. She predicts an unusually hard Winter, followed by a warm and early Summer with plenty of heat.

ASSURES HIM THRONE
Rumanians like a bad boy and would like a bad King, says Eva Fay, in predicting that Prince Carol will ascend to the throne now occupied by King Ferdinand.

HONEY LOU HUNTLEY is private secretary to old "GRUMPY" WALLACK, head of the Wallack factory in Roxbury.

Everyone likes Honey Lou from ANN LUDLOW, the office vamp, to JOE MEADOWS, the shipping clerk.

Young JACK WALLACK comes to work in his father's factory. He falls in love with Honey Lou and she with him.

At a party given by ANGELA ALLEN, in love with Jack Honey Lou drinks two cocktails, thinking they are fruit punch.

TIM DONEGAL, a friend of Jack's, begins to be attentive.

One night when the two are at an out of town inn, with Honey Lou's half-sister, MARGRET MOODY, and DR. STEVE MAYHEW, they are joined by Angela and Jack. Margret sums Angela up as a "cat."

One night while Margret is out on her Summer vacation, her supposed sweetie, Dr. Mayhew, he begins to make love to Honey Lou. Honey Lou is astounded.

Jack is angrily jealous with Honey Lou because she let Steve come to the house in Margret's absence. The day Margret comes home, Lou and she stop at the factory to get some money. Margret overhears someone talking in "Grumpy's" office, and eavesdrops.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER XVI.

HONEY LOU gave her head a little shake of sheer exasperation, as Margret listened to the talkers in the private office.

"Please come away, Margret!" she whispered. "Please!"

But Margret only gazed at her with the far away look of a person who is listening to something else.

Honey Lou turned to go down the iron stairs. Then suddenly she stopped and listened. For it was Jack Wallack's voice, coming from behind the closed door of "Grumpy's" office? Was it?

—It was!

Then, as she stood there without moving a muscle, she heard another voice. The soft, sweet, clear voice of Angela Allen.

Honey Lou could not make out what she was saying. She could hear only the low round tones that carried like the sound of a silver bell.

What were they doing there together? Jack and Angela there in the dead quiet of the factory? And on Sunday, afternoon of all times?

"Hm-m—" she mused. And then startled by the sound of her own voice, she [illegible] down the stairs.

NEW HUNT FOR GOULD RECORDS

[illegible] AP.

—Search for the missing records of the St. John Valley Railway hearing concerning the payment in 1911 of $300,000 to J. K. Fremaling, then Premier of New Brunswick, by Senator-elect Arthur R. Gould of Maine has been extended to Woodstock, N. B.

Even if the official records are not found, there is an official transcript in the possession of Peter J. Hughes of this city, only surviving lawyer of the four who were engaged in the arbitration for a contract for the railroad in New Brunswick.

The connection of the $100,000 payment with the case came out during an investigation in 1917, as a result of which an attempt is being made to prevent Gould from acting as a member of the United States Senate.

Marion Davies to Star in Barrie Story

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service Motion Picture Editor

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 15.—"Quality Street," that delightful, whimsical story by Sir James Barrie, will be made by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer with Marion Davies as the heroine, immediately after Tillie ceases her daily stenography in "Tillie, the Toiler." There is no work from the pen of the gifted Barrie that, from a literary standpoint, ranks as high as "Quality Street."

Sidney Fra[illegible], who directed one of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's most popular productions, "[illegible]," from Beverly of Graustark," starring Marion Davies, will [illegible] version to "Quality Street."

Marion is so eager to make the picture that she [illegible] very single day waited to start it just as soon as she finishes "Tillie, the Toiler," which is now progressing nicely under the direction of Hobart Henley.

The office scene with Matt Moore as "Mac, Gertrude Short as [illegible] best friend and the [illegible] Tillie" is some of the best comedy I have seen in a long time, let us hope it screens as well as it looks in real life.

Marion Davies

WHAT DO YOU THINK OF MARY PICKFORD, our Mary, sweetheart of the screen, playing a thief? Mary asked me that question when I visited United Artists and I believe it's worth asking the public.

She has set her heart on making "The Magic [illegible], the story of a seventeen [illegible] girl thief who goes out to steal a diamond brooch and brings home a scarab that attracts her attention.

Sam Taylor will direct her next and Tim Whelan has been engaged to write the gags. For the present at least, this is the favorite and since Douglas Fairbanks has given his approval it looks to me to be a settled question.

TOM MIX HAS A NEW LEADING LADY. He went borrowing this time and located one at the Warner studio. He chose Helene Costello, an actress in her own right, and a sister of the famous Dolores.

She will play the heroine in "The Cowboy Vendetta," a thriller from the pen of Adela Rogers St. John.

A BRIEF MENTION OF TERRY RAMSAYE'S "A Million and One Nights" is hardly adequate for this excellent history of motion pictures.

Five years ago Terry resigned as general manager of the Mutual Film Company, and he has written two huge volumes of printed matter dealing with the birth of the motion picture, its growth, its development and its romance.

CONSTANCE TALMADGE IS A WILLING EXTRA in her sister Norma's picture, "Camille."

Fred Niblo has arranged an [illegible] sent of famous bad women in history and Constance, who has always a sneaking hope that some day she could play Thais, has inveigled her brother-in-law, Joseph Schenck, into letting her do Thais.

DINNER GIVEN TO FINNEGAN

O'Connell Hall on Dudley street rang with praises of Joseph Finnegan [illegible] representative-elect from Ward [illegible] last night, at the complimentary dinner tendered the young lawyer by a group of friends.

[illegible] Dorgan has been in this [illegible] but ten years com[illegible] Mayor Ireland has won the hearts of thousands [illegible] a new and ornate [illegible] the Romans at the hands [illegible] former Mayor John F. [illegible] William H. O'Brien of Somerville, Cummings, [illegible] Sullivan, Representative Charles R. Sullivan, [illegible] J. Mahoney, Joseph Mason, [illegible] R. Whelton, Finance Committeeman Edward M. [illegible]

PHILADELPHIA MAN ON TRIAL FOR CONSPIRACY

Charged with conspiracy to steal [illegible] from the Blodgett Warren [illegible] Reuben Saul, of Philadelphia, went on trial before Judge [illegible] and a jury in Superior Court [illegible] Saul Black, who also was [illegible] on the charge of conspiracy, pleaded guilty and testified for the government.

GET CONTRACTS FOR ROAD WORK

Highway contracts, on the amounting to approximately $1,000,000 were awarded today by the State department of public works.

A portion of the Southern artery from Dorchester to Wakefield streets in Quincy, went to Dell Co., public contractors of Hyannis, the lowest bidder at $228,4[illegible]

The other bids were: the maford $47,921 to Antonio P. [illegible] Everett Weaver, Kelly & [illegible] $133,267 to Wilbraham, Adams & Gray [illegible] Construction Company, $15[illegible] to Walsh & Wilson, Inc., $48,147.50 to Peekonk, Lacasse Construction Company, $113,[illegible] to Carlo Bianchi & Company, Inc., $45,243.65, to Hennessey and Quincy, Lawton Construction Company, $104,643; Attilieri, Carlo Bianchi & Company, Inc., $124,457.80.

MARTHA LEE GIVES FINAL ANSWERS

By MARTHA LEE

Here we are with the correct answers to the final five questions in Martha Lee's Homemakers' Contest, the awards for which have just been made.

Question No 39 asks, "What is the test for soft custard when done?" Many of you, I'm afraid, thought that a soft custard was a burned custard. While baked custards are undeniably soft the true test of a soft custard is the solid variety. The correct answer to the question is: It makes a coating on a spoon, and not the answer many of you sent: "When a knife comes out clean," which is the correct test for a baked custard.

Question No 30: "How do you make the tomato and milk to prevent a curdled soup," is answered, "Add a few grains of soda to the tomato and add the tomato slowly to the milk."

Question No. 31 inquired, "What effect has cold water on the juice of meat?" Boiling water?" Miss Alice Bradley, principal of Miss Farmer's School of Cookery, answers this question thusly, "Cold water draws out the juice, boiling water coagulates the juices and seals them in the meat."

The correct answer to question No. 32, "What part of the egg is the more difficult to digest is The yolk."

And, last of all, I'll give you Alice Bradley's answer to Question No. 33, "What are the advantages of an insulated oven?" Here it is: "Cooking of food can be completed with the heat turned off. This may be one of the fuel, kitchen temperature is not raised and all heat is utilized for cooking and is not wasted."

B. U. CHORISTERS WILL SING CANTATA 'NOEL'

With George W. Chadwick, widely known composer and head of the New England Conservatory of Music, as a guest, the Choral Art Society of the Boston University School of Religious Education will sing Chadwick's "Noel," a Christmas cantata tonight in the Copley Methodist Episcopal Church.

Assisting in the solo parts will be Rulon Robison, Jean Poole, Helen Grant and David Blair Mccloskey. The accompanist will be Charles L. Davis. William D. Simmons will direct the performance.

RADCLIFFE SENIORS WIN SONG CONTEST

The senior class, led by Frances Anderson of Boston, won the interclass song competition at Radcliffe. The judges, Alice Johnson Radcliffe '28, Mrs. Robert Winternitz, assistant director of choral and A. Elisabeth Chase '27, of Ware, said that the seniors, in their rendering of "The Cat Song," had the best tone and pep.

The other class-song leaders are Clara C. Zotoli '28, of Quincy; Helen Gillespie '28, of Boston; and Olga Davis '30, of Dorchester.

Wellesley Seeking Race in England

BAY STATE OARSWOMAN MAY ROW ON THAMES

An international race, which will rival the athletic contests between Harvard, Yale, Princeton and Cambridge and Oxford may be staged. The women students at the English universities have formed a crew, and it is likely will challenge the Wellesley College crew if the sport is sufficiently developed. Their first race will be on the Thames against a woman's crew from Reading University. As a ruling of the faculty prohibits the women from taking part in boat races, they will get around it by racing against time.

Heydler Gets Boost | Yale Football Profit
President Hard Worker | Grid Pays All Bills
Baseball Generous | Terry's Hard Luck

HEYDLER HAS BEEN FAITHFULLY ON JOB

BASEBALL is in the gloomiest mood just now and a good many people, fooled or reckless. The season began to affect them badly as a player. Very few of the big league owners, which is to be expected with a club as I never was, and a few sour stories. We will say for the two leagues that they have increased the stuffing of the envelopes through dark days when there seemed to be no reason, or even an excuse for it. Judge Landis by way of getting twenty grand, the box-office record, and the old contract. The National League owners, as we learned from a baseball scout, gave their president, John Heydler, a $10,000 increase. That was common perhaps, as the other magnate sent Ban Johnson, the late Mr. Winter, and the hard working Mr. Heydler, who is very eminent, had to grin and bear it. This raise was some unknown reason, was supposed to be a deep, dark secret, but things like that always leak out at baseball gatherings. The bird who told us wasn't connected, even, with a big league club, but he had the info and it was okay. Heydler, who used to be a reporter in the old days, has been a good man for baseball. He is a hard-working, soft-spoken, but he sticks on the job about 364 days of the year. Anybody who does that accomplishes a lot. When a business rolls along to continued prosperity the individual at the top deserves a lot of the credit. There have been more bombastic and picturesque league heads, but never one who had a better system of running his business and keeping the loose ends from blowing out the window. Times certainly change. Ten thousand used to be a wild salary for a proxy. Now it is just a raise in pay.

A TALKING MACHINE COMPANY COMBINE NETTED THE COMBINERS SIX MILLION IN EIGHT DAYS. SUGGESTION HERE FOR THE EIGHT MANAGERS.

FOOTBALL KEEPS COLLEGE SPORT ALIVE

FOOTBALL at Yale in the recently departed season showed a profit of $[illegible] and some odd cents. This remarkable cleanup paid the freight on practically all Eli sport, and left a surplus of almost $200,000 for a year. Remarkable, when you stop to think of it. Yale had a team that was beaten four times. But the boys and girls insisted on storming the Bowl and watching the young heroes take it on the chin.

Football, financially, is not a matter of victory. It's the American outburst of enthusiasm that has been growing more hectic each Fall. It was this feature that attracted the professional promoters when they found they could sign up young collegians to play the game for cash. They can't understand yet why the drifters didn't follow the players.

If most all were enrolled as some of the returners want it to be recorded as at the clubs would fall into the cellar. Last year at New Haven the new coach second on the bone, and track set the season back [illegible]. Based all it was more than $8,000 on the season. Yale only other sports took from football to come through ahead [illegible] but they never less than $100.

CHICAGO is an ideal spot for a "joint" meeting.

BILL TERRY ONE OF BASEBALL'S UNFORTUNATES

TRAGEDIES are sprinkled early here and there in baseball. Bill Terry of the Giants is a case. He's a natural born athlete, with remarkable hitting power. Starting off five years ago with a club that would have played him regularly, he would be among the famous now.

He landed with the Giants, who had more stars at the time than the milky way. George Kelley is one of the greatest first basemen of several seasons, and Terry is a first baseman. He cannot play anywhere else. So he has been forced to park on the bench, pinch hitting once in a while, playing in a series now and then. He can't grow any younger. Another year or so and he will be over the hill, without ever having had his real shot at glory.

Even if he is traded this Winter, he can only have a few seasons ahead. And he has lost the line of youth that sends the born performer up to the heights in one wild surge.

WHEN ILL-HEALTH IS SELF-IMPOSED

Perhaps much of your ill-health is due to grouchiness.

One can feel well and be ill-natured.

You have overexamined your irritability so long that you have ceased to look for pleasant experiences and hence you are a chronic pessimist.

You look upon those who do enjoy life as irresponsible children.

You are so concerned with your earthly future that you have no time to consider a spiritual life. In fact, both spiritual and material are full of foregoddnes.

You have been comparatively healthy all your life—aside from your [illegible] but you believe it can't last and are looking for the blow to [illegible] effectually incapacitate you.

The law of averages, you feel that you are bound to suffer [illegible].

You are worrying over what you shall do when inevitable ill- [illegible]nes and makes you helpless.

You worry about your future till you actually bring about the [illegible] you have dreaded all your life.

You [illegible] yourself the long-in-horror injury!

DAILY SHORT STORY

BIG THINGS

By Louise P. Armstrong

"FROM the top of the hill" said Dave Miller, "we should see the red roofs of the village. Yours was the brightest, Betty! We used to watch for a glimpse of it when we trudged home from school!"

"What absurd things you remember," Phillip Griffith commented amusement plain upon his lean, handsome face.

Betty Fentriss only smiled in the quiet way she had, and looked ahead of her at the winding road that skirted the base of the hill and ran upward in curves, like Alice's path in the Looking-Glass Garden. But her brown eyes were very bright and a glow of excitement dyed her cheek beneath the little aviator hat she wore.

Phillip threw the clutch into second as the slope of the hill grew more perceptible and the powerful engine began to knock. "Foolish roads," he commented in disgust. "It's plain to see there's nothing progressive yet about the little town."

"I don't like to think of Bronsom as being progressive," Dave Miller said quietly. "I like to think of it as peacefully remote in all its dignity, unmarked by the rush of years!"

"You should write poetry," he commented briskly. "Anyone who dreams as you do, can think of such taking expressions, should certainly not be immersing himself in the legal profession!"

"Look!" Dave stood up in the car as it rose to the crest of the hill, dramatically pointing one long arm. "Look, Betty, dear, the little red roof of your home!"

"Oh," exclaimed the girl clapping gloved hands. "It's truly worth all the long way we've come isn't it boys? If we hurry," she continued excitedly "we may be able to go over the old garden and the orchard before it's dark. I know it'll all be dead and withered now, but just the same—! And Phil! I bet you remember the big cherry tree you climbed that day, and got just loads of fruit? And don't you remember how—!"

"Dave slipped and fell out, and sprained his arm!" finished Phillip with a laugh. "You never were much of a climber, Dave! You scared us both to death—the thought you'd been killed!"

"And do you remember," Betty's words were hurried now and her voice strained "how you boys would come and throw pebbles into my little dormer window, to rouse me up mornings?"

"Yes," echoed Phillip, with an other laugh, "and one morning Dave missed his aim and his pebble crashed through the kitchen window. Maybe your mother wasn't mad!"

Betty looked at him, a vague questioning in her eyes, almost a pleading. "I remember how Dave told her it was his fault, the day I fell into the marsh and got all wet. He saved me a whipping, and got one himself! Dave has always stood up for me, Phil!" she put her little hand on Dave's arm, a light touch then turned to the bigger man on her other side, "and so have you, Phil! I'm fond of you both—and it's nice to be coming back home with you"

"I don't see," objected Phillip somewhat curtly, "why you should be calling it home, when you've lived in New York since you were ten and haven't laid eyes on this little hick place since then. But it will be amusing to see it again. By George, there's the old mill! What a funny little place it seems! When I was a boy it looked immense! Funny how children see things! I suppose it's because your mind grows with your body. That is," he amended, "same people's minds do."

"Yes," confirmed Betty softly and she smiled into the light of the setting sun "Some do—and there are others who stay like children, never appreciating anything really big and fine—and never seeing it!"

"Now let's hurry down," she continued, "and see our garden before the night falls!"

Phillip really enjoyed the next two hours in spite of himself. He liked to watch the glow in Betty's face, the sparkle of her eyes. He was intensely amused at her delight at being remembered by the old postmaster, who still beamed from behind the wicket of the little cubby-hole in the village store. A little grayer, a great deal more bent with the kindly years, but still the same simple old fossil, Phillip thought. He wondered vaguely how Betty, who had become rather famous as an illustrator, had seen so much of the world, could be so charmed with this little out-of-the-way village, where she had happened to be born.

With Dave Miller it was different. Dave was the simple kind whose heart would yearn over a spot like this. He couldn't see the really big things of life, ambition left him cold. He would always be contented with a smug, uneventful existence.

It was long after dark when they finally came back into the car and turned again to the hills, to the long drive they must make before reaching the hotel at which they were all stopping en route the tour. Betty had planned for them all to be together ...et to know each other again, although Phillip and Dave had always contrived to keep in touch with Betty. She had been like an indulgent sister to Dave, Phillip thought, always coddling him.

They found the road even rougher in the gathering darkness and the great car slid into big holes with a bang that jolted them fearfully. Phillip grew tense with the exertion of manipulating it, and strangely irritated. Dave and Betty laughed and talked in low voices trying to draw him into the conversation. But he was morose and silent.

Then just on the rise of the hill, the great car stopped, and the engine after a few snorts and puffs, died.

"Oh, what's the matter?" asked Betty fearfully.

"I don't know," Phillip told her shortly. "We've probably jammed some of the machinery loose on this fiendish road. We were a pack of fools to have come into this God forsaken country anyway!"

"Let's get out and have a look at the engine," suggested Dave in a mild voice.

Phillip turned to him savagely "What to you know about a car?"

"Perhaps you may be able to fix it," Dave said in the same unruffled tone.

"I don't know a thing about the engine," rasped out Phillip, now thoroughly on edge. "I'm not a mechanic And I usually drive on decent roads where this sort of thing wouldn't happen!"

"Let's get out Dave," Betty said suddenly "Look at the moon, Honey! Round and golden, in the black sky No wonder that the jolly Welsh sailor thought it was a piece of green cheese!"

"This is no time for flippancy, Betty," snapped Phillip. "Do you realize that we're miles away from the hotel yet?"

"I know," she responded, and in the moonlight she stared full at Phillip. He could see that her eyes were very hard. "I'm sorry you brought us, against your better judgment, Phillip. As for your car, I imagine Dave can fix it. He's clever with machinery, and I've helped him tinker with his old bus. Dave," she commanded, "if the exhaust pipe isn't choked"

While she spoke Dave sprang out and, flashing a torchlight from his pocket, lifted the hood and peered at the engine. "Now try," he commanded after a moment see if she won't go now! You were right, Betty," he exclaimed as the engine turned over and began to throb.

He climbed back into the seat and they were on their way. He heard Betty saying in a sweet, clear voice, when they had reached the hotel, "I'm glad it seemed the same to us Dave—dear little place"

"Some day Betty," there was a new confidence in Dave's voice, "some day, let's go back there—you —and I—!"

Phillip Griffith stamped on the self starter and stepped on the engine wide. The great car leaped and dashed down the driveway. He felt the night wind on his cheek, which burned. And suddenly he remembered Betty's words of several hours ago, "Some people stay like little children always—never appreciating anything really big or fine!"

"Yes," said Phillip Griffith, through clenched teeth, "they [illegible] do—and they never will!"

MEDBURY SAYS—

By JOHN P. MEDBURY

ACCORDING to medical statistics, surgery is becoming the newest fad. Women all over the country are competing with each other to see who can have the most operations.

ONE woman was broken-hearted the other day because there was nothing the matter with her.

SHE says she feels so well that it's ruining her health.

SHE'S only had one operation this year and the woman across the street has had six.

SHE'S three tonsils and two adenoids ahead.

ONE lady says her husband is so stingy that he's only let her have her appendix removed twice.

SHE doesn't care anything about millinery windows or lingerie shops, but her husband has a hard job dragging her past a hospital.

SHE always begs him for something, even if it's only a broken leg.

IT makes her sore when she gets a common cold because she's perfectly able to afford pneumonia.

THE only thing she doesn't want is scarlet fever. She says it wouldn't match her bedroom wallpaper.

AND yellow jaundice doesn't harmonize with a cerise nightgown.

WHEN she was a kid she couldn't have the mumps because they lived in such a tiny apartment.

THE only thing she had room for was smallpox.

SHE loves the aroma of a hospital. Her husband says she fills all the perfume atomizers with ether.

THE next thing he knows, she'll be putting embalming fluid in her beauty clay.

SHE'S so fond of surgery she's afraid to trust her with the bread knife.

GIVE her a mirror and a grapefruit spoon and she'd take her own tonsils out.

BUT he has a surprise for her. He's going to sell the pool and billiard outfit and buy her an operating table.

FRUITS FOR CHUTNEYS

Fruits or vegetables that are most suitable for making chutneys include apples, bananas, plums, marrows, elderberries, gooseberries, cucumbers, damsons, ripe and green tomatoes. Raisins add sweetness to the less sweet fruits and onions add piquancy in many cases. It may be mentioned that chutneys mellow if kept for about, three months before using.

Golden eagles are still to be found in the western and central Scottish Highlands, where the same nests, or eyries, have been used regularly for half a century.

Smoking, according to one expert, is tending to make women's voices harsh and guttural, enlarging the vocal chords and creating a general catarrhal condition.

THE MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

By HELEN ROWLAND

WHEN a man remembers to kiss his wife good-by after breakfast without having to be reminded, he feels like a boy scout whose "kind deed" for the day has been a brilliant success.

No girl should marry a man unless she is sure that she could forgive him for everything on earth—because that is probably what she will have to do, sooner or later.

* * *

When a woman marries a man because he is "worthy" she feels that she is acting wisely; but when a man marries a woman because she is "worthy" he, somehow, feels that he is doing an act of charity.

* * *

The greatest compliment you can pay a woman nowadays, is to tell her that she "looks like a shadow of her former self."

When a girl gives a man the key to her heart, she usually manages to leave a window open so that she can "crawl out of it," in case she changes her mind.

At twenty, a man looks for a soul mate; at thirty, for a helpmate; but, just about the time he should be looking for a nurse, he begins looking around for a little nineteen-year-old playmate.

No matter how you may doll up a calendar, a telephone, or a "solid, substantial husband," you can't make them look frivolous and decorative.

A girl's heart is like her memory-box, crowded with tenderly cherished little souvenirs of love, a man's like his pipe, is carefully emptied, after each flame has gone out.

* * *

Romance has fled when one has to regard one's girlhood love across a "lay-window" instead of a misty mesh.

Apparently, no sophisticated modern girl goes on a honeymoon without her FARE BACK.

Laurel vs. Overcoats

Mr. Jenness of New Hampshire Takes Issue With the N. E. W. F. P. S.

The campaign of the New England Wild Flower Preservation Society against the use of laurel in Christmas decoration brings a sharp protest from Mr. D. W. Jenness, of Brookline in Southern New Hampshire.

Mr. Jenness complains, first, that the Society's campaign is unfair and unneighborly. The society, he says, if successful in its attack, will close a source of income to hundreds of men, women and children. "Many a child in this section would go without a pair of shoes or a warm Winter coat if it were not for the money received for Christmas evergreens."

But the New Hampshire man also maintains that the drive against the decorative use of laurel is not well-founded, because:

"The laurel used for Christmas decoration is that which grows from one to six miles back, in the deep woods, and is never seen from the roads. This laurel does not bloom in the Spring, and eventually will be cut out and tied in bundles, to be burned by the lumbermen who go in to cut the woods.

"The farmer in this section who owns a tract of timber must take from $10 to $20 an acre less than for a piece of timber free from laurel.

"Moreover, the laurel which blooms along the roadside at this time of year is yellow and spotted, and hence useless for Christmas decoration, while that from the deep woods is a bright, waxy green and is the kind used."

"Don't use laurel!" says the N. E. W. F. P. S.

"Don't be ridiculous!" retorts the man from Laurel Hill.

When doctors disagree, the well-intentioned poor father of a family will perhaps be pardoned if he asks for further information. Who will give us the truth about laurel, remembering that in New Hampshire, as elsewhere in the Snow States, shoes and warm Winter coats are, to say the least, highly desirable?

No More District Courts?

District Attorney Suggests CIRCUIT Courts, With Trial by Jury

Holding that the principal trouble with the efficient administration of the criminal law in Massachusetts is the "appeal" system, District Attorney William G. Clark of Essex County would abolish that system by wiping out police and district courts and erecting County Courts in their places.

Eighty-five per cent. of the Superior Court docket nowadays, Mr. Clark says, is made up of these "appealed" cases. SOMEHING must be done, he argues, in order that the Superior Court may be reserved for the trial of felonies. A felony is a crime punishable by death or imprisonment in a State Prison; a misdemeanor is a crime less than a felony.

The proposed County Court would be a "circuit" court, moving from place to place within the county. It would be composed of six or seven judges. It would have jurisdiction of misdemeanors only, and would have TRIAL BY JURY.

What the CRIMINAL wants, the Essex District Attorney says, is delay. The present situation suits him to a "t." He is not to be checked by the threat of severe punishment so much as by the certainty of PROMPT TRIAL and SOME punishment.

Mr. Clark's proposal, first made at the annual meeting of the Essex County Bar Association, has been the subject of discussion by lawyers and editors up and down the State. Radical, in the sense of being fundamental and extreme, it is undeniably interesting. Perhaps it will find its way before the new Legislature in the form of proposed legislation. In that case we are not unlikely to hear from the district and municipal courts, which number 66 outside of Boston, as well as from clerks and court officers.

Live High but Wisely

Are you living up to the high standard of earning power that Secretary Hoover has shown Americans have attained?

For example, take the matter of arctic overshoes and umbrellas. Does every member of your family have them instantly available in case of need?

A census of prosperous Americans would probably show about two umbrellas to three persons, and fewer arctics. Yet each one may save your life in bad weather.

Young lady, do you wear heavy stockings underneath your silk ones? The girls that do look just as well. The stockings are invisible. And they keep you warm in cold weather. In this season of liability to colds and pneumonia, warmth is worth while.

You all get meat enough. How about fresh vegetables and fruit? Spend a little extra and have more of them.

Do you sleep on a good mattress or on a lumpy one? Remember that you pass one-third of your life in bed. Get a new one once in a while.

Make your standard of living really high. That can be done without increasing the budget if the emphasis is shifted to important values from the overstressing of gimcracks and folderols.

Power of Appreciation

Happy is the man whose work brings him recognition before his fellow men. Recognition is a power whose might reaches farther than even the promise of great riches.

Fundamentally it is an offshoot of the Golden Rule. Its growing popularity is a good sign of our times.

The completion of several important buildings in this city has been marked by the simple but inspiring ceremony of publicity commending the artisans for their good craftsmanship.

A few days ago Dr. William Henry Holmes, grand old man of the famous Smithsonian Institution in Washington, was given a book of felicitations sent by 175 world-known savants. It was a splendid tribute to an eighty-year-old man whose researches into the past have helped all to anticipate the future more clearly. It took but a few moments for each busy scientist to give this friendly pat on the back, but what happiness it must have brought to Dr. Holmes.

To a sincere worker recognition is more precious than rubies. Old age wins it and is cheered. Youth observes it and is inspired to greater tasks. It is a force we might well use to work more universally.

THE MAN WHO COULD NOT BE DULL

By DR. FRANK CRANE

An advertisement calls Theodore Roosevelt "The Man Who Could Not Be Dull."

This is a good characterization of Theodore Roosevelt.

He was a dramatic personality and had a way of doing things characteristic of masters of men.

He was a born leader and had a facility for uttering what was in the hearts of everybody.

His career is illuminating.

The advertising pamphlet about him quotes from a writer who said, very justly:

"He was frail; he made himself a tower of strength. He was timid; he made himself a lion of courage. He was a dreamer; he became one of the great doers of all time. Men put their trust in him, women found a champion in him, kings stood in awe of him, but children made him their playmate."

Altogether he was a figure the like of which only a young people like America could produce.

He hated injustice and tyranny. He was patient in sorrow and affliction. He loved nature and craved adventure.

He was always good newspaper copy and is probably better known abroad than any American, unless it be Abraham Lincoln.

Many of us did not agree with him in his ideals, but all of us admired him, and admired his pluck in standing up for his convictions.

One of his characteristic sentences is:

"I wish to preach not the doctrine of ignoble ease, but the doctrine of the strenuous life, the life of toil and effort, of labor and strife; to preach that highest form of success which comes not to the man who desires mere easy peace, but to the man who does not shrink from danger, from hardship or from bitter toil, and who out of these wins splendid, ultimate triumph."

What Do You Know?

After checking your answers to a number of these tests, you should be able to realize along what lines to direct your efforts to enlarge your field of background.

From the list below, select a word which means nearly the opposite of each of these words: 1, Captivate; 2, supplicate; 3, indorse; 4, reform; 5, venerate.

(Abhor—cancel—command—contaminate—repulse.)

Complete this quotation:

6. "Mine eyes have seen the —— of the coming of the Lord."

Do you know the year in which each of these events occurred?

7. Battle of Marathon.
8. Airship Shenandoah totally destroyed.
9. Battle of Bunker Hill.

From what books are these characters?

10. Dr Primrose.
11. Maggie Tulliver.
12. Thea Kronborg.

See tomorrow's paper to verify your answers.

Answer's to yesterday's test:

1, London; 2, Paris; 3, New Brunswick, N. J.; 4, between Rome and Papua; 5, Oxford; 6, France; 7, Samuel Coleridge; 8, Theodore Roosevelt; 9, Robert Louis Stevenson; 10, stately; 11, trivial; 12, laconic; 13, vivid; 14, ascetic; 15, averse.

Odds and Ends of the Town

QUITE CLUBBY.

Lack of street signs has caused no end of confusion to strangers in BOSTON, but, in this case, it was lack of a sign at the new police headquarters that mixed things up a bit for an out-of-towner. One night recently a well-dressed man stepped through the heavy doors at headquarters. A smile of anticipation gave way to an expression of astonishment when he saw himself confronted by a half-dozen uniformed police. He gasped for a moment and then excused himself. "I thought this was the UNIVERSITY CLUB," he said as he quickly backed out of the door.

COLONEL.

MRS. FRANK BRITTON, of No. 232 COLUMBUS AVENUE, need never fear while her pet St. Bernard "Colonel," is around. Reporters had occasion to go to that house recently, when fire threatened. "Colonel" discovered the blaze and barked his way into the Hall of Fame. MR. BRITTON, disparing some of "Colonel's" stunts, invited a reporter to make a motion as though to strike him. MRS. BRITTON, on the invitation was declined. "I'll show you then," said MR. BRITTON, and he moved as though to hit his wife. "Colonel," with a flying leap, seized him by the sleeve.

STRAIGHT TIP.

FRED STANLEY, former BOSTON newspaper man, now connected with a movie producing company in HOLLYWOOD, in a letter to another newspaperman, knocks the props from under the usual belief that all one has to do to gain fame and money is to sit down and slap off a scenario. They aren't buying them from newcomers, according to FRED, but are, instead, picking their movie thrillers from publish'd stories and newspaper clippings. A newcomer has one chance in a million of putting his scenario over, FRED says.

GOOD RECORD

When speakers quote statistics, be careful, rules, etc., listeners commence to yawn. Facts are different. The BOY ON HEALTH DEPARTMENT was in a few weeks announce that he never saw a child injury who was not by the lowest death rate but the best number of deaths from diphtheria. Injury to the DIPHTHERIA HEALTH COMMISSIONER, FRANCIS X. MAHONEY, attributes this remarkable record to the co-operation of the citizens in parents' insistence on having their children immunized against this disease by the toxin-anti-toxin method.

PAINTING POWHATAN.

An client of the sphinx, the wood on head of "KING POWHATAN in front of the door of the TAM MANY CLUB at No. 370 Dudley street Roxbury, will shortly get a new coat of paint. There is a dispute as to what color to use. COURT OFFICER TOM MACK claims the credit of painting the head at a time when the Tammany braves needed a mascot.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

"I NEARLY always agree with you but I must say that you disappointed me in last night's paper—"

Frequently my letters begin that way. The writer then warms up to the subject and proceeds to show me how I've proved that I'm a low grade moron, unfit for the benefits of civilized society. Invariably the reproof is administered in a spirit of amazed resentment. What did I mean by daring to advance an opinion which differed from his or hers?

This is interesting. It's interesting not because it occurs in my correspondence, but because it occurs with increasing emphasis in our national attitude. As a nation we're becoming more and more indignant if people disagree with us. We view such people with animosity. We organize societies to keep such people down. All thought must be standardized, educational thought, political thought, religious thought, even the common neighborhood patter must run along the same lines.

"I can't agree with you!" we say with lowering brow and hurt tone.

Now why in the world should we be hurt if we can't agree with other people?

Get Indignant.

Why should we act as if they had desecrated a shrine when they differ with us about the personality of George Washington or the possible status of the future life or the desirability of a tax on cleomargarine?

We do act that way. We prickle with indignation if any one disagrees with us or advances a theory which violates our prejudices. We take it as a personal insult.

For example—suppose that the strange young man in the shoe department should suddenly tell you that he is a Communist and proceed to enlarge upon the beauties of Communism.

You, yourself, know nothing of the facts of Communism. But you have been warned that it is Very Bad Medicine. "Just look at Russia—" they say. You don't know much about Russia either but you remember that they shot the whole royal family. And at any rate they're foreigners. That's enough for you. The very name of Communism is anathema.

So when the strange young man begins to talk about Communism do you listen and try to find out what it is all about? Do you say to yourself: "Here's a chance to find out something interesting. I'm glad for this opportunity. It will give me something new to think about." Do you say that to yourself? You do not. At the very mention of that vile word your blood thickens and heats. You feel a pressure on your tonsils and the back of your neck. Your whole system becomes charged with animosity and adrenalin.

You Listen.

You listen—but you do not listen for information. You listen in order to dispute and contradict and expose the foulness of Communism and of all people that advance Communism.

But hasn't the youpng man a right to believe in Communism if he so desires?

Yes, you'll agree that he has the right. Just as he has the right to take hop or gamble moonshine or indulge in any other vicious degradation if that's the way he wants to treat his body. That's the way you regard his thought—as "vicious degradation." And you immediately begin to warn your friends against a young man with such ideas.

"That fellow's a nut—he believes in Communism," you say. "Look out for him!"

Of course, you're not always so aroused. A difference of opinion doesn't always stamp a man as a criminal. Sometimes it merely marks him as an idiot—a harmless fanatic—or a merely malicious meddler. But always you feel that there's something wrong about that contrary opinion and the one who holds it, something that falls short of your ideal—disgusts or disappoints you—

That's absurd! There's no reason on earth why a new or contrary idea should "disappoint" or why we should be suspicious of one who holds that idea. His ideas do not make him "queer" any more than our ideas make us "queer." And the argument he offers us is an experience in the rich adventure of thought rather than a personal affront.

Then why do we take it as an affront? Because we are still semi-apes — low browed cave dwellers, gibbering with alarm at all strange things.

Autos Make Patriots

By Garrett P. Serviss,

If you want to love your country and be a true patriot, study its geography, physiography, topography, its animals, plants, flowers, trees, climate and weather moods, as well as its history.

The character of a people is more or less accordant with all these things. I go abroad every year, and every time I return America seems more glorious, because in all its features it is brighter, more animated, and more modern than Europe.

It looks fresher from the hand of nature. The "Old World" is well named. It is no wonder that foreign people are battering for entrance at our doors.

Asia is old with extreme age; Europe is weary under the burden of its centuries of sanguinary history; America is a bright with new light, and astir with uncontaminated vigor.

But I pass by the inexhaustible natural wealth, not yet half developed, and the achievements in industry, invention, practical science and social evolution of which we have a perfect right to boast.

Study, I repeat, the face of your country. Each knows best that to which he was born. New York is my native State, and New York with her romantic hills and valleys, her rivers and streams, her lakes and forests, filled with life and beauty, thrills me anew each time I describe them.

Fathers will see different figures, diversified physiognomies, for every State in the great company has its own personality; but there is not one that fails to awaken the love of its inhabitants when they study its features as we instinctively study those of a mother or of a close friend.

It is a little late in the year now to go automobiling, though the winty hills have an aspect and a charm that you would never guess in the leafy season; but when you start o t again, next spring, do not forget to drive a little slower, while you remember that the landscape through which you are passing is as ready to tell its secrets to you as to any geologist or physiographer.

Everywhere north of Long Island and the Ohio River the face of the country is a curved and moulded image from the hands of the "Ice Age."

There is no reason why you should have with so grand, so intimate a subject as geology—and physical geography only a kind of far-off acquaintance, gained by occasional fragments or reading.

The immense work of the invading glaciers is right before you and all around you; its polished pebbles brighten the bottom of every brook; its huge boulders picturesquely adorn the clods, its gracefy hills and coy glens, over and through which your road winds, in alternate shadow and sunshine, show the hand of the glacial sculptor.
